* A gift will be left on our Memorial Board. If you wish to memorialize your loved ones in a special way, consider purchasing a memorial plaque to be displayed in our Anne Joyce Sanctuary. Each year, on the anniversary of their death, it will be lit as a remembrance. Contact the Temple office at 248-967-4020 to make arrangements for this eternal memory of your loved one.
My first message to you: Preparing for the High Holy Day season

A congregant recently asked me a simple and profound question: “Rabbi, What are we here for?” We were talking about Temple Emanu-El, what has been done in the past and what we would like to see in the future. I responded by citing the traditional three pillars of our faith: Torah, Avodah, and Gmilut Chasadim, we are here to study Torah in the broadest sense, we are here to lift our spirit and be inspired by the experience of profound prayer, and we are here to do acts of loving kindness and righteousness.

Each of these pillars is not easy to put consistently into practice. We try and fail many times. We live our lives trying and missing the mark. Quite soon, all of us will have an opportunity to review where we are in terms of these three pillars when we arrive to the High Holy Days. Our tradition has established a period of forty days ending in Yom Kippur to encourage us to prepare for this awesome and challenging experience. But how can we prepare?

Let me offer a few suggestions:

1. Use the 40 days before Yom Kippur to refine your soul. For as Rabbi Olitzky wrote, “to pass through this world without knowing one’s own soul is forever to carry a message unread.”
2. Do introspection and self-examination of your deeds. We call this process, Cheshbon Ha Nefesh, an “accounting of the soul.”
3. Be able to do Teshuvah, repentance. Say I am sorry. Forgive others and yourself. This is the beginning of real change.
4. Be able to confront the Yetzer harah, our evil inclination. By looking towards our darker side, reflect on how much the Yetzer harah has controlled you.
5. Think about one occasion in which your actions or thoughts were under the dominion of this Yetzer. Now, believe that through Teshuvah, repentance, we can recreate ourselves.
6. Remember: Acts of Tzedakah, gifts of kindness, Teshuvah, repentance and Tefilah, prayer, can change the harsh decree of Yom Kippur.
7. Be aware that repentance sometimes is quick; other times is much slower.
8. Taking that first step towards change is the most difficult one. Speak out and write down your mistake, clear your heart in order to move forward.
9. Decide to commit or re-commit to the study of Torah. It is one of the purposes in our lives.
10. Remember, according to the Rabbi of Kotzk, “Only the whole heart is a broken one”.

So, what are we here for? We are here to lift our Neshamah, our souls, to the heavens. Like Jacob in his dream, there are angels going up and down the ladder of our Self. Our task, in advance of the upcoming High Holy Day season, is to walk up the ladder as much as we can. In this way, I believe, we will all have a more meaningful Rosh HaShanah and Yom Kippur.

During my first two weeks with you (I am writing in mid July), I had the opportunity to begin to meet with staff and some of you. Out of these first meetings, I have felt a renewed commitment, engagement, and willingness to embrace this new chapter of Temple life and an enthusiasm to walk together in this new path. As I begin my Rabbinate with you, I hope and pray that this new beginning will be one in which we will come together to create a strong Kehillah, a strong community of meaningful relationships which will help bring our souls up the spiritual ladder in our search for the Divine.

From my heart to yours,
In an e-mail sent to Congregational Presidents, Steve Sacks, URJ Chairman stated “Our Reform Jewish Movement is at a critical time in history. Though we face many challenges, there is much to look forward to and I know the future of Reform Judaism is strong.” The same can be said about Temple Emanu-El. We too, are faced with challenges and there is, in my opinion, a bright future ahead of us. A future in which Temple Emanu-El’s sanctuary is filled with worshippers, a significant increase in young family involvement in Temple life, post B’Nai Mitzvah children and their families seeing the value in retaining their membership and our senior congregants continuing to support our Temple.

For sixty one years our Temple has been an essential part of our community, effectively serving congregational needs. Our Temple has enriched our lives by embracing, nurturing and teaching the values and beliefs of the Reform Jewish Movement. It is a history that we can celebrate now and well into the future. For this to continue, we will recognize that constructive change is an essential ingredient in our continued success. We will be persistent in our endeavor to address the needs of a changing population. We will continue to embrace differing points of view while retaining the values and beliefs that have sustained us. We will be steadfast in our efforts to involve all of our congregants into the fabric of Temple life.

What I am asking of you is to reaffirm your commitment to our Temple and its congregation. Through our efforts, yours and mine, I see the Temple continue to address our needs, as well as, the needs of future Temple members. Achieving this will ensure our place within the Reform Jewish community and allow us to remain an integral part of the community in which we live.

Bruce Klein

Dear Temple Members, Once again, some of our religious school students have stepped up to the mitzvah plate!

Please enjoy the following letter from Lynn Cooper and "kvell" with us, that we have mighty helpers-- as we continue to be one of the very few synagogues to still assist Jewish communities in the former Soviet Union. Three times a year--at Rosh HaShana, Chanukah and Passover--we send the impoverished town of Brovary a moneygram for $500. That used to come only from Social Action Committee and a few kind temple members. But in the last several years we have had help! Four Religious School classes have joined us with their tzedakah led by Lynn Cooper’s class.

From all of us on the Social Action Committee, thank you! thank you!

Laura and Marty Kohn, Brovary co-chairs

Dear Laura and Marty, The year has ended and I can exhale!!

We were all so nervous that our goal of another $300.00 this semester would be beyond our reach. Not that the kids didn’t care, but just that more pennies were coming in than quarters! The students learned what it meant to make a commitment to something and see it through…THEY DID!

Enclosed is your check for $342.00 for the “Brovary Project.” In addition, after hearing that we may be short—Mr. Stein’s 6th grade class turned over to us $111 of their tzedakah! That means our friends of Brovary will have $435. This brings our total for this year to $761.

Once again—I thank you for allowing me the opportunity to share Brovary with you—teaching our students of Temple Emanu-El so many wonderful life lessons.

Lynn

Thomas Klein - August 23

On Friday, August 23, Thomas Sidney Klein will be called to the Torah as Bar Mitzvah. Tommy is the son of Patricia Klein and Sheldon Klein, sisters Julia and Ruthie Klein will also join in the happiness together with grandparents, Ruth Dandurand, Milt and Elaine Klein, the late Ruth Klein and Thomas Kovacs, will be in blessed memory. Tommy is an 8th grader at Anderson Middle School where he has been recognized for his peer mentorship with autistic children. Tommy’s mitzvah project kept him busy with JARC and the Mitzvah Carnival.

Rafaella Perrault-Victor - August 24

Rafaella Perrault-Victor will be called to the Torah on Saturday, August 24, 2013. Rafaella is the daughter of Jackie Victor and Ann Perrault. Celebrating with her will be her brother Ari, grandmother Marilyn Victor and grandparents Jan and Robert Perrault. Rafaella attends Detroit Waldorf School and is a member of the Mosaic Youth Choir of Detroit. For her Mitzvah Project, Rafi is volunteering at Kids Kicking Cancer.
Camp Run About campers have been enjoying fun in the sun with water play, creative movement, picnic lunches, Cirque Amongus, and Mad Science with their Weather Wonders Program. This year Metroparks brought a nature center to our school in their Mobile Learning Center. The theme was “Shells, Scales and Pollywog Tails.” Campers will enjoy a field trip to Heritage Park-Splash Village, which will include a morning of fun under their sprinklers.

Our Safety Town program under the direction of head teacher Janet Sigmon was held during Session II for Camp Get-A-Way campers. A field trip to the Health Exploration Station with a presentation of “Stranger Danger” was part of our summer program. A visit from Louie the Lightening Bug as well as swimming at the JCC pool filled our days. Everyone enjoyed our camp Shabbat sing-along. Graduation was held on July 25th and everyone passed with flying colors (red, amber and green).

Summer is going all too quickly as we get ready for Session III of Day Camp. A trip to Red Oaks Water Park, “The Emperor’s New Clothes” at the Marquis Theater, as well as a special performance from Paula Doak highlight this session.

According to a recent study in the Pediatrics Journal, preschoolers are not spending enough time playing outdoors and just being kids. Daily physical activity is essential for preschool age children both for preventing obesity and for their development – their physical development and their cognitive development. When kids are running, skipping and learning to ride tricycles, they are not only exercising their bodies, they are also exercising their minds, which is why playtime is so important.

Tania Cowling published the following in the Bright Hub entitled “The Many Things Preschoolers Learn Through Play:”

Through play children grow in so many ways. They learn how to use their muscles, coordinate what they see with what they do, and gain mastery over their bodies. They observe their world and decide what they like. Children acquire new skills and learn when and how to use them. The act of play teaches creativity as play children do not completely differentiate reality from fantasy. Pretend play and real play tickles the senses of young children and allows them to explore and think. Young children must “play” to learn cognitive skills and actual facts. Unlike adults, who learn by reading or being lectured to, children need to learn thinking skills and information by experimenting and just “doing it.”

Children go through stages of play; solitary, parallel, and cooperative play. The solitary, independent player engages in activities on her own and not with other children. In parallel play, the child is playing independently but next to other peers, perhaps using the same materials. Finally, children move to cooperative play which is group play with everyone organizing and taking on different roles. Through play, children learn to become social and to cooperate with one another.

Fall family orientation will be Tuesday, September 3rd with school beginning on Monday, September 9th, including extended care. If you have not yet enrolled for fall please do so as soon as possible to accommodate the schedule of your choice.

Our infant program is open year round and will remain open the last week in August to meet the needs of our working families. Please call the Pre-School office (248-967-4847) for information on all of our programs. We look forward to welcoming many of our infants into our Toddler Room at the Temple.

Enjoy the rest of this beautiful summer!

Barbara Zeevi: New Face in the Temple Office

I am enjoying my work at Temple very much. All new starts have challenges and I love challenges. This position, as ASC is a good change from other administrative positions in the past, where I managed the American Technion Society’s office. I’ve also held executive secretarial positions at doctors and lawyers offices. I don't label myself by my work, but rather as wife, happily married 41yrs., mother and grandmother, that's the best!

My love of travel and gardening is naturally limited to the summer months (too short).

Call me Barb or Barbara, for any event set up at Temple, I'll be happy to assist. You can reach me at (248) 967-4020 x 204 or calendar@emanuel-mich.org
The Power of Forgiveness explores recent research into the psychological and physical effects of forgiveness on individuals and within relationships under a wide variety of conditions and translates it into a popular, accessible documentary film for national public television.

This includes feature stories on the Amish, the September 11 tragedy and peace-building in Northern Ireland, along with interviews with renowned Buddhist teacher Thich Nhat Hanh, Nobel Laureate Elie Wiesel, bestselling authors Thomas Moore and Marianne Williamson and others.

The film also explores the role forgiveness holds in various faiths traditions. It provides an honest look at the intensity of anger and grief that human nature is heir to. We see in the film that there are transgressions people find themselves unwilling or unable to forgive. Through character-driven stories the film shows the role forgiveness can play in alleviating anger and grief and the physical, mental and spiritual benefits that come with it.

HAWAIIAN SHIRT SHABBAT
As I write this on July 2, Faye Damraur and a dedicated quintet of volunteers—members Murt Sherbow, Lou & Flo Citarel and Glorya Traute along with Shirley Silverman, mother of Vickie Edwards, just completed duplicating, collating and stuffing our first High Holy Day mailing. So much goes into bringing our members the High Holy Day services each year, and I want to thank this loyal “gang” for yet another year of getting us started on the right foot!

I look forward to being able to see many of you right after Labor Day (!) during the High Holy Days and hope everyone has a relaxing summer.

Pursue Life in Peace
by Marilyn Kaczander Cohen

In honor of Joe Klein becoming Rabbi Emeritus of Temple Emanu-El, it was my pleasure to create a unique fiber art wall hanging and join my husband Don in making the piece a donation to our Temple.

Many have expressed an interest in hearing how this 7’ x 4’ piece came to be; how it is constructed and its meaning, so I thought I’d share a bit about the process.

Work began in November 2012. The goal was that it be unveiled at Rabbi’s retirement party in June 2013. The title, Pursue Life in Peace, didn’t come until the end, but I knew from the beginning that the dove and its symbol of peace would be the focus and tell the story.

The visual inspiration came from an illustration in a children’s book, appropriately titled Noah’s Ark. At the end of the story of Noah, G-d promises never again to bring destruction upon the earth and in Torah we read the many instructions G-d gives to Noah and his sons on what they must now do - the “here’s what comes next” part of their journey.

My interpretation of those instructions is that Noah is to pursue life. I felt the title, Pursue Life in Peace, connects G-d’s words to Noah and our congregation’s wish for Rabbi Klein as he begins the next chapter of his life.

The dove (and Noah’s robe) are made of silk. The rest of the piece is almost exclusively cotton fabric which I hand-dyed. After sketching the main image onto a base fabric the size of the finished piece, fabrics were “auditioned,” cut into the desired shapes and placed one piece at a time. Many were moved around, removed - sometimes discarded - and final selections were ironed to the base with fabric adhesive.

When all pieces were securely adhered, I began sewing. The detailed stitching may be difficult to see from its current vantage point high in the Anne Jospey sanctuary. I used a free motion technique which is like “drawing” with thread and needle much as you would draw on paper with pencil. I was fortunate not to have to use my reverse sewing tool (ripper) too often. There is some painting on the fabric; the dove’s eye is a Swarovski crystal and the sun streaks are made from fusible metallic fibers.

Special thanks to several people who helped significantly throughout the creative process. Judy Greenwald had the plaque made that hangs on the wall next to the doorway. She also knew someone who would make the frame that the wall hanging is wrapped around as well as hang the piece in the sanctuary. Joyce Kaczander helped me nit-pick on several occasions. (Was I ready to move on? Anything need changing?) She also proved instrumental in handling my staple gun! Alie Kabbe helped me schlep the art to Temple and thanks, too, to Don, who supervised along the way.

New Year’s Preview

You will find a schedule for the High Holy Days on the front page in this bulletin. Reminder: As always, in order to have tickets mailed, members need to be paid up in all their financial commitments through September of 2013. Your August statement will show what that amount is, and you’ll need to have it paid up by August 12, 2013 in order for tickets to be mailed. Thus, if you have not yet returned your Membership Commitment Form for 2013-14, please do so at your earliest convenience. We incur many expenses at the start of the fiscal year as we get ready for the holidays and for Religious School, so we do very much need your payments. I hope our members are enjoying a relaxing and enjoyable summer.
